WENT TO AUSTRALIA 'TO STUDY'

BJP councillor in Amreli civic body disqualified

GOPAL KATESHIYA
RAJKOT, MAY 25

Ashta Zalavadiya

ASHTA ZALAVADIYA, a BJP councillor in Gujarat's Amreli, has been disqualified after she remained absent at three consecutive meetings of the urban local body without filing leave reports. Zalavadiya, a BJP councillor from Ward 5 of Amreli Municipality, was disqualified earlier this week by District Collector Ajay Dahiya after Hitesh Patel, Chief Officer, Amreli Municipality sent a report about the ruling party's member. In response to her disqualification, her family said she went to Australia for higher studies, and has "settled" there. "She had remained absent from meetings of the general board for three consecutive times. As per rule, the Chief Officer sent a report to the District Collector about Zalavadiya skipping the meetings. Subsequently, the Collector issued an order, disqualifying Zalavadiya as a councillor of the municipality," Bipin Limbani, President, Amreli Municipality, told The Indian Express on Saturday, adding, "We received the order of the collector around three days ago."

Disqualification of Zalavadiya comes days after two BJP councillors of Damnagar Municipality in Lathi taluka of Amreli district were disqualified by the District Collector on May 20. Khima Kasotiya and Meghna Bokha, BJP councillors from Ward No.2 and No.3 respectively of the BJP-ruled civic body, were disqualified after they became parents for the third time in violation of the two-child norm for local bodies in Gujarat.

Limbani further said that Zalavadiya has moved abroad. "This is the reason she had not been able to attend meetings of the general board over the past few months," he said.

Zalavadiya could not be reached for a comment. But her husband Gopal Zalavadiya, a mechanical engineer, told The Indian Express over phone from Perth that she moved to Australia in July last year. "My wife was merely 23 when she was elected a councillor of Amreli Municipality (in 2021). I was also a BJP worker. However, I moved to Australia after that election. My wife wanted to pursue her studies. So, she enrolled for an MBA degree and flew to Australia in July 2023 after she got a visa," Gopal said.

The Zalavadiyas were into the real estate and hospitality businesses while they were in Amreli. "My sister has settled in Australia and I also intend to do the same," Gopal further said, adding, "We are planning to come to Amreli to do the paperwork, if required, related to my wife's membership of Amreli Municipality. In November 2021, Ghanshyam Lakhnotra, then president of Congress-ruled Rajula Municipality in Amreli district, had stepped down as head of that urban local body, saying he was moving to Dubai with his family. However, he had continued as a councillor of the municipality.

Meanwhile, Limbani said that Zalavadiya's disqualification will have no bearing on the BJP's position as the ruling party in Amreli Municipality. "In the 2021 election, we won 35 of 44 seats in the general board of Amreli Municipality. Congress managed to win only nine seats. Following Zalavadiya's disqualification, our strength reduces to 33 members. But that's a comfortable number in a 44-member general board," he said.

After 7-yr-stint, MICA's outgoing director eyes future pursuits: Research on ancient universities

RITU SHARMA
AHMEDABAD, MAY 25

AFTER A seven-year-long stint at MICA Ahmedabad as its president and director, Dr Shailendra Raj Mehta is set to move on. Among other future pursuits, he is looking forward to bringing to fruition a research on universities of ancient India.

As his tenure ends May 31, he passes the baton at MICA to Jaya Deshmukh -- the first woman director that the institute is set to have in its 33-year-long history.

In an exclusive interview with The Indian Express, Dr Mehta talks about the impact of Artificial Intelligence (AI) and technology on placements at MICA. He also gives details about his new role, which he will be assuming in August, as the "Distinguished University Professor" at the OPJindal Global University in Haryana.

His body of work spanning 12 years of his career, which is planned to be a book expected to be out in two years, covers Taxila in Islamabad, Pakistan, Nalanda, Vikramshila and Odantapuri in Bihar, Jagaddala and Somapura in Bangladesh and Vallabhi in Gujarat. Most of these universities were established by Buddhist kings, as he observes.

The research project also looks at similarities in the charter and layouts of these universities, comparing them with the modern international varsities of the likes of Oxford and Stanford. "Oxford (University in the United Kingdom) was rising almost at the same time when Nalanda was being destroyed but the seeds of Nalanda had started to be planted 800 years prior to the founding of Oxford," he says.

"It is one of those curious events in history where Nalanda's sun was setting or rather the varsity was being destroyed and Oxford was rising. The torch of civilisation and revival shone over Asia, then the Middle East then Europe, North America and then the rise of Japan, China and India followed. The current Stanford design (in the United States) is exactly the Sompura Nalanda design and I am documenting one of those," he says.

Dr Mehta, who began his teaching career in 1990, further underlines that he is "able to show the connection directly from Nalanda to Oxford" in his work. "I am comparing the Indian charters with those in Europe. Charters in Sanskrit and Latin are almost identical," he asserts, adding that his work would have maps to explain. Of these seven, physical remains of only Nalanda, Taxila, Vikramshila and Somapura can be found in the present times. To give a push to research at

Dr Shailendra Raj Mehta began his teaching career in 1990. Express

MICA, Dr Mehta says the 2,000 work hours in a year were "budgeted" to compulsorily allot 10 per cent each to research and administration and 15 per cent to teaching while the remaining 60 per cent the faculty could pick whatever they wanted to do. "We gave complete freedom to our faculty to choose their passion. We spent one full year identifying the matrix on good research, good teaching and good administration. We budget for 2,000 hours, completely through faculty consensus for which we will hold you accountable at MICA," says Dr Mehta.

To promote research, the institute also got mentors like Philip Kotler, hailed as a marketing guru, and ensured "fast promotions". The 33-year-old MICA is claimed to be the only residential institute in the Asia-Pacific region dedicated to creating leadership in Strategic Marketing and Communication. Founded in Ahmedabad, Prof Dr Mehta says the institute did not expand, "because it is difficult to replicate excellence".

About his own research on ancient universities, he says, "The whole template of university went from India, over 800 years to Central Asia, the border of Afghanistan and Tajikistan, to Iran to Baghdad from where it takes two routes- southern Spain and then Italy and then other route is Jerusalem and Oxford and Paris."

Researching and documenting the material in nine primary languages, including Sanskrit, Pali, Prakrit, Chinese, Tibetan, Greek, Latin, Arabic and Persian and secondary languages like Hindi, Gujarati, Bangla, French, German, Spanish and Russian, Dr Mehta says that he found a connection with these universities and those of Europe only two years back.

Meanwhile, an advocate of the New Education Policy (NEP) 2020, Dr Mehta says that the much-anticipated takeover of technology is bringing the oral form of teaching. "Universities have survived much greater tech disruptions. Artificial Intelligence has its role... but it is not going to supplant basic college education. It can supplement in very interesting ways but the job of the instructor since the time of Chanakya is to look in the eye of the pupil Chandragupta and Maurya and ensure if they are getting it," he says. However, technology has already started affecting middle and higher level positions in the job sector, he says, elaborating, "Many of the tech companies that were big recruiters like Amazon, Google, Uber are not recruiting anymore because they are laying off the surplus hires during Covid and now AI has made most of them redundant. Senior level jobs have gone. Automation -- which was killing jobs at lower levels -- is now going to reach middle and higher levels as well."

Dr Mehta is also set to serve for two months each at Malaysia Asia School of Business in Kuala Lumpur and in North America.

Man kills roommate in fit of rage in Vadodara, arrested

Accused and victim were colleagues

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
VADODARA, MAY 25

A 23-YEAR-OLD man was found dead on Saturday at a rented apartment in Vadodara's Jalaramnagar, said police. He was allegedly killed by his roommate in a fit of rage, officials added.

Dhiraj Das Suresh, a migrant from Bihar, was allegedly murdered by Ayush Yadav (21) after Yadav found photos and videos of his sister on Suresh's mobile phone, officials said.

The Vadodara Detection of Crime Branch arrested Yadav from Kalapur railway station in Ahmedabad hours after Suresh's body was found.

The murder took place in the early hours of Saturday when Suresh and Yadav allegedly began arguing over their work. Both worked as contractual employees in a private engineering company.

While the two were arguing, Yadav allegedly came across photos and videos of his sister on Suresh's mobile phone and was enraged.

Assistant Commissioner of Police (Crime) Harpalsinh Rathod said, "The moment Yadav saw photos of his sister on Suresh's phone, he was taken over by rage. He grabbed a knife used to cut cables and stabbed Suresh in his stomach... He then escaped from Chhani railway station to Kalapur in Ahmedabad, where he was looking to board a train to escape to West Champaran in Bihar... However, the Crime Branch teams had already begun looking for the accused and through human and technical intelligence... we had located him in Kalapur, from where he was arrested."

Police said that the accused also hails from Bihar and had been living in Gujarat for two years. The two men had arrived in Vadodara about six months ago in search of work, and landed a contractual employment in a private company along with accommodation.

The Detection of Crime Branch has handed over the custody of the accused to Jawaharnagar police station, where Yadav has been booked for murder.
